

To Whom It May Concern

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter in support of Hassan Bahathiq. I had the privilege of teaching Hassan in my course, Threat Hunting and Endpoint Analysis, at Umm Al-Qura University, where he distinguished himself as one of the most capable and dedicated students I have had the opportunity to instruct. Hassan earned an A+ in the course, a result that reflects both his technical aptitude and his consistent commitment to excellence.

The course is demanding and hands-on, covering the fundamentals of the Windows operating system, the detection of malicious behavior on endpoints, and the identification of lateral movement across systems. Throughout these areas, Hassan demonstrated not only a firm grasp of the underlying concepts but also the practical skill to apply them effectively in real-world threat-hunting scenarios.

I am confident that Hassan possesses the technical foundation, intellectual curiosity, and work ethic to excel in any advanced academic program or professional role in cybersecurity. I recommend him without reservation, and I would be glad to provide any further information that may be helpful.

Sincerely,
